Why is history important? Well, a famous writer named Michael Crichton once said, " _____ 29 _____ You are like a leaf that doesn't know it is part of a tree."

History isn't just about names and dates in the past. It teaches us about social development. History tells us where we came from, what we did right, and what we messed up. It's also a guidebook to our present, and a compass* pointing to our future. It gives us warnings for the future. _____ 30 _____ History isn't only the study of other people. It's also about ourselves. The people we learn about may have lived centuries ago, but their actions directly influence the way we live today. Events that seem like dates on a page have been turning points in the story of our society.

_____ 31 _____ We can ask friends from different countries about the best books about their country's history. We can also look into our own country's past. We should remember stories that are meaningful to our country. _____ 32 _____ For beginners, learning history through stories is both interesting and memorable*.

History helps us learn about different parts of the world and different times in history. The historical books about different nations are written by people who know their history well. Some of them are about our own nation, and some are about other nations in the world. _____ 33 _____ That's the value of history.

*The word "compass" means an instrument for finding direction.

*The word "memorable" is the adjective (adj.) form of the noun (n.) "memory".

- A. Why do we learn history?
- B. Then how can we learn history?
- C. And it helps us keep going with knowledge.
- D. If you don't know the history, you don't know anything.
- E. The stories will give us different ideas about world history.
- F. All of these help us hold the key to understanding ourselves and the world.

四、任务型阅读

7. 阅读下面短文，根据其内容填空和回答问题。(前四题每题答案不超过3个单词，最后一题须用完整句子回答。)

Since the beginning of 2024, "city reading" has become more and more popular in China. Many young people recommend (推荐) city bookstores and share their experiences about exploring these reading spaces on social media.

Every bookstore is different and special. People can look for one favorite bookstore where they can indulge in (沉浸于) reading. While reading deeply, people can also discover the beauty of the city. And some people even fall in love with reading because of the environment of the bookstores.

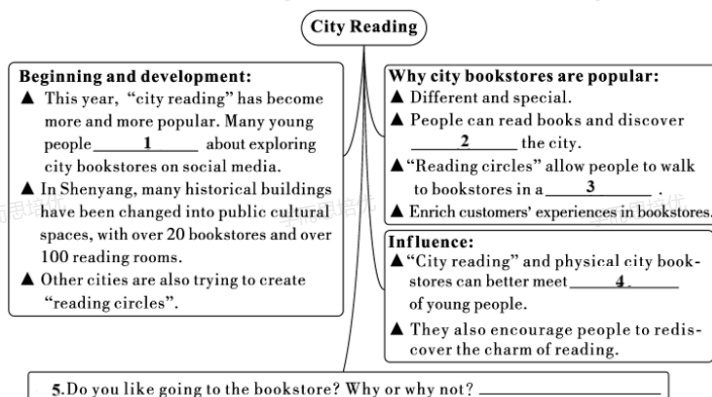

Walking in the streets of Shenyang's Heping District, you can see many bookstores hidden in hutongs. Gede Bookstore is 101 years old and has a classical style. And some bookstores like When Paper Talk Bookstore are near people's houses. They are popular because they provide people with the chance to read at their doorsteps (家门口).

In Shenyang, many historical buildings have been changed into public cultural spaces, with over 20 bookstores and over 100 reading rooms. Other cities are also trying to create "reading circles", allowing people to reach bookstores within 10 minutes' or 15 minutes' walking.

Bookstore owners have been trying to enrich the customers' experiences. Some bookstores also offered a "one day store member" activity. Deng Qingxuan, a student studying in Shenyang, took part in this activity. From making coffee to recommending books, he had a busy but satisfying day. "Seeing so many people drawn to reading with my help makes me feel very satisfied.” he said.

In the digital age, “city reading” and physical (实体的) city bookstores can better meet the mental needs of young people. At the same time, they encourage people to rediscover the charm (魅力) of reading.
